THE BRETTON HALL ASSOCIATION

Since Bretton Hall College was founded by Sir Alec Clegg in 1949, some 15,000 students have passed through the College on their way to careers in the Arts and Education. Despite their differing personalities, ambitions and careers, the overwhelming majority of these people look back on their time at Bretton with real affection. They remember their friends, the tutors that influenced their lives and, of course, the beautiful campus and mansion that give Bretton so much of its character.

The Bretton Hall Association exists to make sure that we stay in contact with our students and to help them to stay in contact with each other.

Sir Alec Clegg established Bretton Hall to ensure that the arts remained important in the education of children and in society as a whole. Today, we continue to work with this as our aim. The Bretton Hall Association plays an important role in bringing together people who share the legacy of Bretton and, through this, a belief in the arts and their importance.

Membership of the Association costs £5 per year or £50 for life. For further information about the Association's services, or to join, please speak to a member of staff during your time at Bretton Hall!
